

China's network suspends solar container

Overview

---

A two-year United States tariff holiday on solar panels from four Southeast Asian countries expired yesterday. In August, two prefecture-level counties in China's Hainan province successively issued notices to suspend the approval of decentralised PV projects. Since the beginning of this year, the province of Shanxi, the region of Inner Mongolia and several other provinces and cities in China have announced. China suspended export restrictions on several rare earth elements, processing technologies, lithium battery materials, and other items announced on Oct.
